This new issue of The Year in Respiratory Medicine provides a comprehensive literature-based update on recent developments in fourteen hot topics within this extremely diverse field.

The authors, all practicing clinicians, have scanned the literature to identify the fastest-moving areas of publication that are relevant to the majority of their daily practice. From their selection and analysis of the most important papers published in each area are derived the latest literature based recommendations for management of the patient with respiratory disease.

Publication Year          2008
Edition                   1st
Author/Editor             Fergusson, R.; Hill, A.; Hirani, N.; Reid, P.; Riha, R.
Publisher                 Clinical Publishing
ISBN                      978-1-846-92014-1
Platform                  OvidMD, Ovid
Product Type              Book
Speciality                Pulmonary Medicine
Language                  English
Pages                     320
Illustrations             0